On December 12 and 13, vote for LiUNA 3000 to represent you at work.

Before we formed our union in 2012, I was classified as a casual employee at the bottom of the pay grid even though I had been working regular hours for over two years. Within three months of signing our first collective agreement, and with the hard work of the LiUNA 3000, I moved to the top of the pay grid.

STRONG, LOCAL, ON-SITE REPRESENTATION

We're getting results for St. Mike's.
Now let's get results for St. Joe's.

With LiUNA 3000, we're all in this together.

LIUNA Local 3000 builds strength and solidarity with our membership, while providing active, on-site professional representation.

LiUNA 3000 staff always tailor representation to members' needs and strengths, working collaboratively with elected stewards and representatives to act on issues that matter to our members.

The LiUNA 3000 team provides ongoing training, mentorship and support for all of our worker representatives in every workplace we represent.

Even before we get to the bargaining table, our professional representatives work hard for our members.

Even before we won our first collective agreement at St. Michael's, we fought to

- get a 2% raise for all members.
- revoke disciplinary actions against our members.
- force the hospital to create 15 new permanent positions.

And because of a shorter wage grid, St. Michael's laboratory staff are paid more over their careers than employees in OPSEU's Central Agreement. We'll be making sure that everyone we represent at the new merged hospital benefits from the best wages in the province.

LiUNA 3000 is a small local with tailor made agreements backed by the strength of an international union.

90% of dues paid by LiUNA 3000 members stays at the local level. But when the going gets tough, we can rely on the strength of our international union for support.

Our international union provides support for our organizing and educational programs, and we tailor those programs to the specific needs of our members in each bargaining unit.

LiUNA is also a member of both the Canadian Labour Congress and the Ontario Labour Federation, so we keep our finger on the pulse of the Canadian labour movement.
